

ABSTRACT

LIQUID CRYSTAL ALIGNMENT

- 5 A liquid crystal device has a surface alignment structure comprising an array of alignment features (10) which are shaped and/or orientated to produce a desired alignment. Depending on the geometry and spacing of the features (10), the liquid crystal may be
- 10 induced to adopt a planar, tilted, or homeotropic alignment.